Wesupply welcomes Oliver Cooper as a new non-executive Director to its Board

LONDON, 10 July 2008 - Wesupply, the emerging leader in On Demand Supply Chain Management is delighted to announce Oliver Cooper as a new non-executive member of its Board of Directors.

Cooper's past experience includes managing exceptional revenue and work force growth across software solution providers including Manhattan Associates (NASDAQ: MANH) where he held the position of Chief Operating Officer. Cooper served as President and as a non-executive director at Neovest, a provider of trading technology and strategies that significantly improve trader and investor performance. Cooper is currently President and CEO of Simtrol, Inc. (OTCBB: SMRL), an innovative provider of software solutions to manage, control, maintain and diagnose connected devices such as medical equipment, digital displays, electronic whiteboards and cameras. Cooper is also a Founding Partner of Triton Value Partners where he provided management expertise to high growth technology companies and management of supply chain execution in complex distribution environments.

"I am delighted that Oliver will be joining the Wesupply Board," commented Stewart Oades, Chairman of the Wesupply Board. "He brings a wealth of international management and advisory experience to the table during this exciting period of growth for Wesupply."

"I am excited by the prospect of helping Wesupply accelerate its growth worldwide," said Cooper "In the present economic climate, organisations require the flexibility and agility of an innovative On Demand solution and I feel that Wesupply has the opportunity to fundamentally change the way companies execute in today's increasingly complex and challenging business environment."

"Oliver's extensive experience in technology and supply chain are tremendous assets for Wesupply. He will make an invaluable contribution to both our global business strategy and the development of our North American operations." Said Bob Godfrey, CEO of Wesupply.
